Could you please provide the list of ingredients found in Green Regimen Energy and Focus?

Theanine

Theanine is a notable amino acid predominantly present in tea leaves, recognised for its ability to promote relaxation without causing sleepiness. Theanine is notable for its capacity to induce relaxation while simultaneously improving focus, particularly when taken alongside caffeine. This combination is frequently pursued by those who require sustained alertness in the face of stress or demanding schedules. Theanine aids in stabilising the fluctuations commonly linked to energy products, promoting a more even mental state. Furthermore, it aids in alleviating anxiety, which can be especially beneficial in high-pressure scenarios, thus improving overall cognitive function. Many individuals have noted enhancements in their mood and an increased capacity for sustained concentration following the inclusion of theanine in their routine, highlighting its significance as a component of this supplement.

Tyrosine is an amino acid that plays a crucial role in the production of neurotransmitters and hormones. It is essential for various bodily functions and can be obtained through dietary sources or supplements. Tyrosine is an amino acid that plays a crucial role in the synthesis of various neurotransmitters, such as dopamine, norepinephrine, and epinephrine. These neurotransmitters play a crucial role in regulating mood, alertness, and cognitive function. Tyrosine proves to be particularly advantageous in stressful circumstances, as it improves mental alertness and concentration, making it a preferred choice for individuals managing challenging responsibilities or high-pressure settings. Studies indicate that the addition of tyrosine may enhance cognitive flexibility and working memory, especially in stressful situations. Therefore, it serves as a crucial component in Green Regimen Energy and Focus, providing users with the necessary resources to excel, irrespective of external challenges. By enhancing the availability of neurotransmitters in the brain, tyrosine helps maintain cognitive sharpness and engagement, enabling individuals to effectively address their daily challenges.

Caffeine is a central nervous system stimulant that can enhance alertness and reduce fatigue. It is commonly found in coffee, tea, and various energy drinks. While moderate consumption can be beneficial, excessive intake may lead to adverse effects such as anxiety, insomnia, and increased heart rate. Caffeine is a prevalent stimulant utilised worldwide, known for its capacity to increase energy levels and improve mental alertness. This mechanism involves the inhibition of adenosine, a neurotransmitter associated with sleep regulation, which subsequently enhances the release of other neurotransmitters, including dopamine and norepinephrine. This action results in better concentration and an uplifted mood, establishing caffeine as a fundamental component in numerous energy-enhancing supplements. Nevertheless, the difficulty frequently arises from its capacity to induce feelings of restlessness or subsequent energy depletion. Green Regimen Energy and Focus addresses these effects by combining caffeine with other components such as theanine, which contributes to a more balanced energy experience. Consequently, individuals frequently experience a sense of vitality and alertness, free from the negative side effects typically linked to caffeine intake. This combination promotes a more productive and focused day, making it a valuable addition to the supplement's formulation.
