“Not gonna lie, I fell down a rabbit hole looking for Monopoly Go free dice rolls and links, and it got sketchy fast.” It started harmlessly. I just wanted to finish one event — literally one. I needed about 120 more dice rolls, and instead of waiting 6 hours, I thought I’d find some working links.

I had no idea what I was in for.

Link farms, fake generators, “claim now” buttons that lead nowhere. One site even wanted me to “verify” my Facebook account. Yeah, hard pass.

The thing is, the actual dice links do exist, but they’re usually buried under trash-tier SEO posts or get expired before they even rank. That’s why I stopped relying on Google completely and started using a curated feed that updates every single morning.

This page combines both dice roll links and free gift drops — so sometimes you’ll get rolls, other times it’s in-game cash or sticker packs. Either way, it’s free stuff.

I’ve been using it for two weeks now, and I’ve never gone two days without at least one working link. It’s low-key the only reason I’m still playing.

Here’s what worked for me:

Don’t rely on Facebook “fan groups” — they often repost expired links. Only trust link pages that are updated at least daily.

Tap links while the app is running in the background — reduces issues. This is the combined link page I use now. Includes both dice rolls and cash bonuses.
